From The Couch

Overcoming Discouragement

Working for the Lord can sometimes be very discouraging. There are times when we plan work, and sacrifice in order to obey God (b: serving others), yet those we serve don't seem to appreciate our efforts.

Instead of thanking and commending us, they criticize us and talk bad about us behind our backs. We may begin wondering "what's the use, should I keep knocking myself out, if what I am doing is not appreciated?" We think, "Maybe I should pull back and not work so hard, or maybe I should just quit altogether." During times like these, we need to stop and consider our thinking. Discouragement is a feeling, and feelings can be controlled by the way we think. James told the Christians of the dispersia to rejoice (feeling) in their trials by knowing (thinking) that the testing of their faith developed perseverance (James 1:2-3). Paul encouraged the Corinthian Christians by directing their minds to a godly view of their trials "Therefore my dear brothers, stand firm. Let nothing move you. Always give yourself fully to the work of the Lord, because you know (thinking) that your labor in the Lord is not in vain" (1 Corinthians 15:58).

Whenever you are criticized, or whenever you are not being shown appreciation for your hard work, and you begin feeling discouraged, go to God's word for a mental tune-up. By filling our minds with the truths of God, Christians can overcome discouragement!

EXERCISE:

1. Read the following passages of scripture at least once this week: 1 Corinthians 15:58; Galatians 6:9-10; Matthew 5:11-12; Acts 5:17-24;

James 5:7-9.

2. Thank God for the truths He has given you that can empower you to think the right way, feel the right way, and behave the right way.

THOUGHTS TO PONDER

A weak faith is weakened by predicaments and catastrophes whereas a strong faith is strengthened by them.

YOUTH NEWS

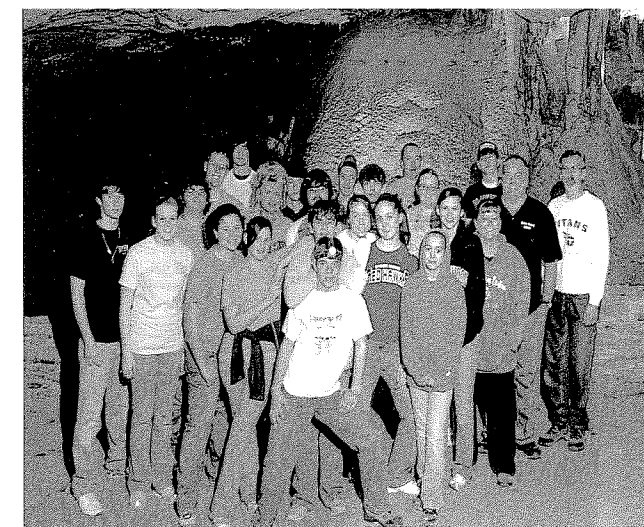

On Wednesday the group went to the county nursing home in Dickson. We sang a lot of songs and some of the residents sang along with us. They thanked us for coming. Some of them never have a visitor and are really glad to see us.

Camp will be in July this year. Can't wait. It will be a lot of fun. More information will be coming soon.

Gossip, whom does gossip hurt? Not only does it hurt the person being gossiped about but it also hurts the one that's listening. Be sure of your facts before you tell anyone. Most of all if you have a problem concerning someone, go to him or her, not the person sitting next to you. Damage can be done to the whole congregation. Please read Psalms 15:1-3 and take heed. I think we are all guilty at one time or another.

Bible. Are you reading yours? Try to take time each day to read one chapter. The more we know the word the easier it will be to follow.
